The Colt Balok Show Announces

“Black Man Who Converted 200 KKK Members Disagrees With Black History Month”

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. – The Colt Balok Show’s mission is to inspire everyone to be their best self and connect one human to another; the issue of racism collides directly with our core principles. Daryl Davis is known for convincing 200 KKK members to turn in their robes. Through his experience, he became a race relations expert. On Sunday, August 9th, Daryl will discuss the issues happening in America now on The Colt Balok Show.

Before becoming a race relations expert, Daryl was a pianist for singers like Chuck Berry and Jerry Lewis. During the 80’s and 90’s, he would create conversations with KKK members to understand why they would hate him. After befriending and converting 200 members, he went on guest appearances around the world, from Ted Talks to The Joe Rogan Experience.

“Daryl is amazing,” Colt Balok, the Host of the show, said. “Daryl lives our message of connecting with others.” Daryl has previously been a guest on The Colt Balok Show. Since then, a lot of issues of race have happened. Colt knew that if he was going to discuss these controversial issues, it was going to be with Daryl Davis. “I love conversations with Daryl because he speaks with love. He finds commonalities with everyone and gets to understand them. I want to know what his thoughts are on these issues.” With the show’s mission to connect one human to another, Balok wants to discuss topics including, Black History Month, the statues being torn down, and George Floyd.

The show has always been about connecting with others deeper than the surface level. No matter the guest, Balok has always tried to find a way to understand people while inspiring others to do the same. “This interview is a big step to helping me understand others.” Balok said. “This subject is something we have barely touched. I want others to have a conversation about a tough subject like this just to connect. This isn’t about debating. Instead, it’s about understanding what him and millions of others in America are going through.”

The Colt Balok Show and uStudios are pleased to welcome Daryl Davis for this episode. The event will air on the CW station at 11:00 AM on Sunday August 9th. The event will include an interview with Neon Trees lead singer, Tyler Glenn about his relationship with his sexuality and religion.
